Preface

The Merriam-Webster Learner's Dictionary defines a dream as “something that you have wanted very much to do, be, or have for a long time.” Dream can also be a verb.

Many of us have dreams. We have dreams about a happy life, or we dream of having religious or political freedom. We may dream of good health, or dream about a new or better relationship. We have dreams about a new job or more money. Some of us dream of a new life for ourselves and our families.

New York City has welcomed people with dreams for hundreds of years. Many come here for a visit: New York City welcomes more than 60 million visitors every year. Others just want to learn more about “The Big Apple” and why New York City is so special.

More immigrants come to New York City than any other city in the world. Almost 4 out of 10 New Yorkers were born in another country, and thousands of new immigrants arrive every year. Many find jobs or continue their education. Others stay at home and take care of their families. Many immigrants stay in New York City, while some move to other parts of the U.S.A.

I was born in Manhattan and have lived in New York City for most of my life. As a teacher of ESOL at the Jewish Community House of Bensonhurst in Brooklyn, I saw that many of my students did not know very much about New York City. But they wanted to learn more about it. I started to give lessons about local history and customs, plus places to go and things to do. Some of these lessons are part of this book.

New York: City of Dreams is for people who study English as their second (or third) language at a mid-beginner level and higher. It is part cultural guide, part tourist guide, and part English language reader. This book is for immigrants who already live here, and for tourists who want to visit. It is also useful for students in other parts of the world who want to improve their English and learn more about New York City: the Big Apple, the World City, the City of Dreams.

The City

1. Welcome to New York City!

New York City (NYC) is the largest city in the United States. More than eight million people live here.

New York City has five districts (parts of a city) or boroughs: Manhattan, Brooklyn, Queens, the Bronx and Staten Island. Manhattan is the most important business, financial and cultural center of both New York City and the United States.

New York City is home to more than three million immigrants. They come from more than 200 countries, speak over 800 different languages, and practice hundreds of religions.

More than 56 million people visit New York City every year. Many want to study, work and live here.

New York City has a large natural harbor, and it is an important cargo port and business center. New York City's subway (metro) system is one of the largest in the world. More than 2.4 million people ride the subway a day. Subway trains operate (or run) 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

New York is a place of high energy. It is busy day and night. There is always something to see and do. This is why people call New York "The City that Never Sleeps."

Welcome to New York City!

2. New York's City's First People

The Lenape (lə'na:pi) were Native Americans (American Indians). They were the first people to live in what is now New York City.

They came here from the north one thousand years ago. The Lenape lived in Manahatta ("hilly island" in the Lenape language), and what are today the Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island.

New York was very natural and beautiful, with many forests, hills, small rivers and lakes.

Deer, mountain lions, black bear, turkeys, wolves and other animals lived in the forest. There were also many birds in the sky and fish in the ocean, rivers and lakes.

The Lenape hunted and fished. They also grew corn, beans and tobacco.

Most Lenape lived in circular houses made of curved trees covered with tree bark, grass and animal skins. More than 20,000 people lived in 94 small villages.

Most villages were near the water.

The Dutch arrived in 1624. Many Lenape got sick and died. Others married the Dutch. Some moved away. Today there are no Lenape in New York.

3. Old New York (1524-1898)

The first European to visit what is now New York City was Giovanni da Verrazzano. He was an Italian explorer. He arrived in 1524. The Verrazzano-Narrows Bridge was named after him. It connects Brooklyn and Staten Island.

The English explorer Henry Hudson visited in 1609. He worked for a large trading company called the Dutch East India Company. Hudson was looking for a shortcut from Europe to China. The Hudson River was named after him.

Peter Minuit came here in 1626. He worked for the Dutch West India Company. He "bought" Manhattan from the Lenape with a big box of things that cost $26.

The Dutch called Manhattan New Amsterdam (Nieuwe Amsterdam). It was part of the colony of New Netherland (Nieuwe Nederland). The English also had colonies in America. They wanted the Dutch to give them New Netherland and go back to Holland. The Dutch said "no."

In 1664 the English took New Amsterdam from the Dutch and renamed it New York. The English stayed until the end of the American Revolutionary War in 1783. New York City (it was then only Manhattan) became the first capital of the new United States. George Washington became President there.

New York City (Manhattan, the Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island) was created in 1898. Before that time, these places were separate cities and towns. Each had its own government.

4. Manhattan

Manhattan is the cultural, financial, media and entertainment capital of the world. Many radio, television and telecommunications companies have their headquarters there, as well as magazine and book companies.

Manhattan is home to three of the world's most famous tourist attractions: Times Square, Central Park, and Grand Central Terminal. It is also where you can find Fifth Avenue, the Empire State Building, Rockefeller Center, Lincoln Center and the United Nations.

Manhattan has many famous districts, including Chinatown, the Theater District, Herald Square, Greenwich Village and SoHo. It is home to more than 30 great museums, including the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the American Museum of Natural History, the Guggenheim Museum, the National 9/11 Memorial & Museum, and the Museum of Modern Art (MoMA).

You can find big department stores like Macy's and Bloomingdale's in Manhattan. Wall Street is the world's center of finance, and Times Square is the world's most famous entertainment district. Manhattan is also home to almost one hundred colleges and universities, including Columbia University, New York University (NYU) and the Fashion Institute of Technology (FIT).

More than 1.65 million people live in Manhattan. But weekday commuters- who come to Manhattan from other places for work- increase this number to over 3.9 million.

5. Brooklyn

Brooklyn is close to Manhattan. Three bridges (the Brooklyn Bridge, the Manhattan Bridge and the Williamsburg Bridge) and many tunnels connect it to Manhattan. The Verrazzano-Narrows Bridge connects Brooklyn to Staten Island. Brooklyn is very interesting. It has old, historic neighborhoods like Brooklyn Heights, Cobble Hill, Fort Greene and Park Slope; multicultural neighborhoods like Bensonhurst, Bay Ridge and Sunset Park; and neighborhoods near the ocean like Brighton Beach, Manhattan Beach and Coney Island. Coney Island has a popular beach and several amusement parks. Brooklyn is also home to the Brooklyn Nets basketball team.

The Lenape people lived there before the Europeans arrived. In 1636, Dutch farmers “bought” land near Gowanus Bay. In 1646 the Dutch started a small village that is now downtown Brooklyn. They named it Breuckelen, after a town in Holland.

During the Revolutionary War (1775-1783), American and British soldiers fought The Battle of Brooklyn (August 27, 1776). The British stayed until 1783. Brooklyn had many farms and small villages. The name Breukelen was changed to Brooklyn. It became a city in 1834. In 1860, what is now Brooklyn was the 3rd largest city in the United States.

After the Brooklyn Bridge opened in 1883, many people and businesses moved to Brooklyn. It soon became an important center of industry, business, sports and culture. Brooklyn became part of New York City in 1898. In 2024, 2,680,000 people (called Brooklynites) lived in Brooklyn, and 47% of them speak a language other than English at home. Many say that Brooklyn is the most interesting borough in New York City!

6. Queens

Like Brooklyn, Queens is part of Long Island. It became a borough of New York City in 1898. The first people to live there were the Lenape. They lived in small villages near the water. The first Europeans (from England and Holland) arrived in Maspeth in 1635 and Vlissingen (now Flushing) in the 1640s.

Before 1900, Queens was mostly farms and forests. But after the Queensboro Bridge opened in 1909, many people moved to Queens. It is New York City's largest borough in land area and has a population of more than 2.3 million. Queens is the most diverse place in the world, and people from over 200 countries live there. Queens has two big airports: LaGuardia (LGA) in the north and John F. Kennedy International (JFK) in the south. Most international flights arrive at JFK.

There are many things to do in Queens. Flushing Meadows - Corona Park is the home of the Queens Museum of Art and the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

The Unisphere, Flushing Meadows – Corona Park.

The Chinese Dragon Boat Festival, the Queensboro Dance Festival, and other national and cultural celebrations take place there too. Rockaway Beach is one of New York City's largest and best beaches. It also has a new boardwalk. It is easy to get to Rockaway Beach by car, bus, subway or ferry.

Queens has many great restaurants, with types of food (cuisines) from all over the world. And there's excellent shopping in Elmhurst, Rego Park, Flushing, Astoria and Jamaica. Citi Field is home to the New York Mets baseball team and the New York Jets football team.

7. The Bronx

The Bronx is the most northern borough of New York City. It is the only borough that is not an island or part of an island. It is the home of the New York Yankees baseball team, the Bronx Zoo and the New York Botanical Garden. The Bronx is also the birthplace of hip-hop music. The Bronx is home to several universities, plus Orchard Beach, City Island and Wave Hill, a park and cultural center with great views of the Hudson River.

As in other boroughs of New York City, the first people to in the Bronx there were the Lenape, who called it Rananchqua. The Bronx was mostly forests, rocky places and beaches. Many wild animals lived there, including birds, deer, rabbits, wolves and mountain lions.

Jonas Bronck was the first European to live there. In 1639 he started a farm near the Harlem River. People called it “The Bronck’s Farm.” Over the years, the name was changed to “The Bronx.” Many of the forests became farms and villages.

After the subways arrived in the 1920s, many people moved to the Bronx from Manhattan. They were mostly Irish Americans, Italian Americans, and Jewish Americans. During the 1950s and 1960s, many of them moved to the suburbs. African Americans and Hispanics - mostly from Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic – became residents of the Bronx. The population of the Bronx was 1,443, 229 in January, 2024.

8. Staten Island

Staten Island is the most southern (and the most suburban) of New York City's five boroughs. It is home to approximately 493,000 people. The Verrazzano-Narrows Bridge connects Staten Island to Brooklyn. You can also go there on the Staten Island Ferry. It offers some of the best views of New York City. A trip on the ferry is free.

Staten Island is not a popular tourist destination, but there is a lot to see and do there. Staten Island has four public beaches and more than 170 parks. It is home to several museums, a zoo, public gardens, historic places, a baseball stadium and the big Staten Island Mall.

The Snug Harbor Cultural Center is a large collection of interesting 19th - century buildings in an 83-acre (33.5 hectare) park. It has flower gardens, many old trees, a museum, historic architecture and art galleries. The beautiful Chinese Scholar's Garden opened in 1998. It has eight buildings, a small lake, trees, waterfalls, a bamboo path and large rock formations. It's a very special place!

If you are interested in American history, visit Historic Richmond Town. It is a large outdoor museum with more than 30 historic buildings from the late 17th to the early 20th centuries. It includes old commercial, religious and government buildings, as well as farm buildings and private homes. Some of the buildings were moved from other parts of Staten Island.

The Jacques Marchais Museum of Tibetan Art is a museum and garden on a hill in a quiet Staten Island neighborhood. It is a group of buildings that look like a Tibetan monastery. The museum is about the art and culture of Tibet and the Himalayas.

9. The New York City Subway

The subway is part of the most important public transportation system in New York City. It is also one of the oldest and largest subways in the world. With more than 470 stations and 800 miles (1287.45 km) of track, 3.2 million passengers ride the subway every weekday. The subway is very important for city residents, workers and visitors. It is run by the Metropolitan Transportation Authority (MTA).

The “F” Train at the Smith - Ninth Street Station, Brooklyn, 2005.

The first subway line opened in Manhattan in 1904. It soon grew to become three separate systems: the Interborough Rapid Transit (IRT), which includes the 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 lines; the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit (BMT), including the J/Z, L, M, N, Q, R and W lines; and the Independent Subway System (IND) which includes the A, B, C, D, E, F and G lines. The three systems became one big system in 1940. The fare was 5 cents until 1948. You can pay your fare with a MetroCard or with OMNY, a “no contact” system that uses a credit or debit card, a smart phone, or an OMNY card from the MTA. The MTA says that the MetroCard system will end in 2025.

Most subway trains travel underground in Manhattan, but many run on elevated tracks in the other boroughs. The subway system operates 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. It never closes, except during a very big snowstorm or hurricane. The subway system operates in Manhattan, Queens, Brooklyn and the Bronx. It never leaves New York City.

D. True or False?

Some of these following statements are true and some are not true (false).

Write a "T" for true and an "F" for false.

- ___ 1. The NYC subway system is the largest in the world.
- ___ 2. There are 47 stations in the NYC subway system.
- ___ 3. The subway carries 3.2 million passengers every weekday.

- ___ 10. You can pay your fare with a MetroCard or with OMNY.

Train Arrival Sign. Broadway - Lafayette Station, Manhattan.

10. Riding the Subway

People who ride the subway are called passengers or riders. As a rider, you pay one fare to enter the subway system. You can transfer between trains for free until you exit or leave the system. You enter the subway system through a turnstile, where you swipe your MetroCard or use OMNY. You can use the MetroCard or OMNY for individual trips on subways and buses, or you can buy a special 7-day or 30-day fare with unlimited trips over that period of time. The subway fare includes one free transfer to or from a bus.

The train operator drives the train, and the conductor opens and closes the doors and makes announcements. Local trains stop at every station. Express trains stop only at the biggest or most important stations. Express trains are faster than local trains.

New Yorkers use the boroughs when we talk about train direction of travel. Trains that go to Manhattan are Manhattan-bound trains, and trains that go to Queens are Queens-bound trains.

The words uptown and downtown can mean your direction of travel. If you are at Times Square (Broadway and West 42nd Street) in Manhattan and are going north or towards the Bronx or Queens, you are going "uptown." If you travel south or towards Brooklyn, you are going "downtown."

The New York City Subway system is old. Parts of it are not in good condition. Some stations are dirty and trains are sometimes late. The Metropolitan Transportation System (MTA) is making repairs on the system all the time: weekdays and weekends, days and nights. The MTA does most of the work late at night and on weekends, so subway routes can change during those times. The MTA posts an announcement of route changes in every station (see photo above) and online. The MTA website (www.mta.info) has maps, schedules and other information in more than 70 different languages. You can also download an app ("MYmta")  on your phone or tablet.

- ___ 9. Subway routes can change during the night and on weekends.
- ___ 10. The MTA posts route changes in every station and online.

Entrance to the Fort Hamilton Parkway "F" and "G" Subway Station, Brooklyn.

11. Riding the Bus

You can't go everywhere by subway, but you can transfer one time from a subway train to a bus (or from a bus to a subway train) for free. There are more than 5700 buses in the NYC transit system that travel on 325 different routes. Many bus routes operate 24 hours a day.

New York City bus routes have a letter that shows the borough where the bus travels (B for Brooklyn, BX for the Bronx, M for Manhattan, Q for Queens, and S for Staten Island) plus the route number: the B68 bus travels between Prospect Park and Coney Island in Brooklyn; the Q70 bus travels between Jackson Heights and LaGuardia Airport in Queens.

A local bus stops at every bus stop. Limited buses are express buses that stop at fewer places. You enter most buses in the front and pay the fare with your MetroCard or with OMNY. You should exit the bus in the back. SBS (Select Bus Service) has express buses. With a MetroCard, you pay your fare at a machine before the bus arrives. You can get on (enter) and get off (exit) an SBS bus at any door.

In Manhattan, most buses travel uptown and downtown (north - south) and crosstown (east - west). Many Manhattan crosstown bus routes are easy to understand. The M23 runs from one end of 23rd Street to the other end; the M86 does the same on 86th Street. Crosstown buses are usually convenient because most subway lines only go uptown and downtown. But in Midtown (14th Street to 59th Street), crosstown buses can be very slow because there is usually a lot of traffic on the big midtown streets.

You can download New York City bus maps from the MTA website (www.mta.info) or view bus routes on the MYmta app.

About NYC

12. New York Says “Hi” to You!

Many people think that New Yorkers are not friendly. Most New Yorkers are friendly, but we are often very busy. We may not have time for a long conversation, but we like visitors and try to help them when we can.

Greeting people: New Yorkers usually don’t say “hello” to people they do not know when they are on the street, in the subway or on a bus.

But when you see someone you know, it is polite to say “hello” to them. “Hi” is more informal. Many New Yorkers ask, “How are you?” They don’t really want to know about your health. They are just being nice. The best answer is, “I’m fine, thanks. And you?”

We say “good morning” (as a form of hello) before noon; “good afternoon” (as a form of hello) between noon and 5 or 6 PM; “good evening” as a form of hello (and sometimes goodbye) after 5 or 6 PM; and “good night” only as a form of goodbye after 5 or 6 PM.

Most people shake hands firmly and smile when they meet for the first time. A man named Carlos Rodríguez might shake hands and say, “Hello, my name is Carlos,” or more formally, “Hello, my name is Carlos Rodríguez.” And, “It is nice to meet you.”

Please / Thank you: These are two “magic” words that are always good to use when you ask for something and after a person gives you something.

Excuse me: We say “excuse me” when we want to speak or we want a person to repeat something. We also say “excuse me” when we bump into someone by accident, or a person is in our way and we want to pass. You can also say “pardon me.”

Many New Yorkers speak very fast. You can say “English is not my first language. Please speak more slowly” or “Can you repeat that please?”

13. Stay Safe

New York City is one of the safest big cities in the world. In 2019, more than 66 million people visited here. Crimes against tourists are rare: they don't happen often. Here are some tips or suggestions that can help you have a safe visit in the Big Apple:

1. Most neighborhoods in Manhattan are safe day and night. But it is best to walk around during the day and early evening. It is not a good idea for women to walk alone at night. It is better to be part of a group.

2. If you plan to be out late at night, it is good to know how to get where you are going. You should also know how to get home. If you have to walk a long distance to or from the subway, take a taxi or call a car service.

3. Many New Yorkers don't obey traffic rules. They cross the street where they want, and don't pay attention to the "walk/don't walk" signs. Cross at the corner when the sign says "walk." And always look both ways before you cross the street.

4. Don't text, read messages or play video games when you cross the street.

5. Watch out for bicyclists and people on electric motorbikes and motor scooters. Many do not obey traffic rules.

6. Keep your wallet in a safe place. Don't carry a lot of cash.

7. Only use ATMs at banks. Some ATMs at small stores or in the street are not secure.

8. Never open your wallet or show things of value (jewelry, camera) in the street or on the subway.

9. Make a photocopy of the picture page of your passport and carry it with you.

Leave your passport in a safe place at home or at your hotel.

10. In an emergency, call 911 (see next chapter).

14. Emergency 911 and Non-Emergency 311

New York City has two special telephone numbers: 911 and 311.

911: We use 911 to report an emergency. An emergency is a dangerous situation and we need fast action. It is when a person can die. We use 911 for:

- a serious illness and we need help now (heart attack, stroke)
- an accident
- a drug overdose or poisoning
- an injury
- fire
- a fight
- a robbery
- a person who is lost or missing for a long time
- a terrorist attack or when we see a suspicious person or package
- when we see someone who looks dangerous

The person who answers our call at 911 speaks English. We can also ask to talk to someone who speaks our language.

311: We use 311 for non-emergencies. We also call 311 to get information about New York City government services. We can get help in 175 different languages. We can also go to 311 online: <http://www1.nyc.gov/311/>, or download the “NYC311” app on our phone or tablet. We use 311:

- when there are noise problems
- when there are garbage problems
- when we see a cat in a tree
- to report street problems (parking, holes in the street)
- when there are heat and water problems in our building
- for questions about health services, school, transportation, jobs or other NYC government services

15. Finding a Good Restaurant

There are over 23,000 restaurants in New York City. This is good news if you want to eat out, but it is not always easy to find a place you like.

Guidebooks like Lonely Planet and Zagat and websites like TripAdvisor and Yelp! can help you find a good place to eat. Your friends and classmates can give you the name of a good restaurant too.

The New York City Department of Health inspects restaurants and other places that sell prepared food, like coffee shops, bars and delis. The inspectors visit once a year or more. They want to know: Is the kitchen clean? Is the food fresh? How do they prepare the food? Are there problems with rodents (mice and rats) and insects?

After the inspection, the Department of Health gives a sign with a letter grade to the restaurant. The restaurant must post the sign in a window (see below) where people can see it from the sidewalk. The letter is not about the taste of the food or if the service is good or bad: it only answers the question, “Is it safe to eat here?”

A is the best. It means that the restaurant is clean and it is safe to eat there. A B grade means the restaurant is so-so. A C means that the restaurant is not a safe place to eat and the Department of Health may close the restaurant soon. Many New Yorkers will not eat at a B or a C restaurant. Grade Pending means that the restaurant got a B or a C and asked for another inspection. It must post a “Grade Pending” sign in the front window until the inspector visits again, usually in one month or less. If a place has a “Grade Pending” sign, you may not want to eat there.

16. Tipping

A tip (gratuity) is money that a client or customer usually gives to a service worker, in addition to the basic price. Service workers are servers (also waiters and waitresses) in bars and restaurants, taxi and limo drivers, hotel workers and hair stylists. Tips are voluntary. They are not required. But many service workers do not make a lot of money and they need tips to help pay for rent, food, clothing and transportation.

Tipping is normal in New York City and the rest of the United States. In restaurants with table service, customers usually leave 15-20% (percent) of the amount of the check (or bill) when service is good or okay. In a buffet-style restaurant, 10% is normal. A $1 tip per drink at a bar is good, but customers leave $2 or more at expensive New York bars.

New Yorkers sometimes give a higher tip for excellent service, and a lower tip for so-so service. If service is very rude or bad, they don't leave a tip at all.

A normal tip is 15-20% for taxi drivers and other drivers. At hotels, guests usually give a bellhop (also known as a bellman or porter) $1-2 per bag. You should also leave $2 a day to the person who cleans your room. You can tip the hotel doorman $1-$2 if he gets you a taxi. You should also tip your hotel concierge. A concierge is a person who can find you tickets to a popular Broadway show or reserve a table for you at a busy restaurant: the size of the tip depends on the difficulty of getting what you need.

New Yorkers give tips at spas, barber shops and beauty salons. We do not give tips to doctors, dentists, teachers and never to the police. We do not leave a tip when we eat at fast food restaurants like McDonald's or Pizza Hut. But you will often find a paper cup near the cash register at coffee shops; many customers put tips in the cup for the workers.

17. Public Libraries in New York City

There are three public library systems in New York City. They are free and are open to everyone. Each library system has a large central library and smaller branch libraries in many neighborhoods. Many branch libraries have librarians who speak the languages of the people who live in the neighborhood. Libraries have books, CDs, videos and magazines in many languages. All libraries have computers you can use for free. Many libraries have special cultural and educational programs, including free English classes for adults. If you have a library card, you can take books and other materials home.

The New York Public Library has four big research libraries and 85 branch libraries in Manhattan, the Bronx and Staten Island. The Humanities and Social Sciences Library on Fifth Avenue and 42nd Street (we call it “The 42nd Street Library”) in midtown

Manhattan is one of the biggest and best in the world. It has many rare books and manuscripts, photographs and other works of art (artworks). <https://www.nypl.org/>

The Queens Public Library is the biggest library system in the United States. It has a large central library in Jamaica, and 62 branch libraries around the borough. It also has a Job Information Center and seven Adult Learning Centers. The Queens Library’s ESOL program is the largest in the United States, with more than 100 different free English classes every year. <https://queenslibrary.org/>

The Brooklyn Public Library has a big central library, an excellent Business Library and 59 branch libraries. The Central Library also has a Business and Career Center that helps people find jobs. <https://www.bklynlibrary.org/>

18. Theater, Music and Dance!

New York City is the world capital for theater, music and dance. Many actors, musicians and dancers live here. People who write music and songs (composers) and plays (playwrights) live here too.

Theater: New York City is the theater capital of the world and home to the Broadway show. There are two kinds of theater, musicals and plays. Musicals have speaking, acting, singing and dancing. When people think of Broadway shows, they think of musicals!

In a play, actors mostly speak and perform. A serious drama can make you think. A comedy will make you laugh. Musicals and plays are at all kinds of theaters. Broadway theaters have seats for over 500 people, and there are dozens of smaller “Off-Broadway” theaters and “Off—off-Broadway” theaters. You can also see musicals and plays at neighborhood theaters, schools and public parks.

Music and Dance: New York City is the birthplace of disco, hip-hop, freestyle, doo wop, bebop, punk rock, new wave and salsa. New York is also an important center for classical music, opera, jazz, rock, blues and ethnic music. You can hear music on the street and in subway stations. Music is everywhere!

The city’s Club Scene is the biggest in the world with dance and music from funk to techno to pop. The city is home to hundreds of orchestras, bands, dance companies and theater groups, plus concert halls, dance clubs, night clubs, cabarets, jazz clubs and other places for theater, music and dance every day of the year.

19. Times Square

Times Square is the most exciting place in New York City. The lights, the sounds, the traffic and especially the thousands of people who visit make it a very high-energy destination day and night.

Before the 1880s, Times Square (it was then called Longacre Square) was home to big market where men bought and sold horses. After electricity (and the subway) came to midtown Manhattan, things started to change. In 1905, The New York Times newspaper moved there, and the mayor changed its name to Times Square.

By 1914, many theaters moved north to Times Square from downtown. Restaurants, bars, night clubs and big hotels moved there too. Times Square soon became the entertainment center of New York City.

Tourists love Times Square because it is exciting and interesting. It's also a great place to go if you want to have lunch or dinner before you see a Broadway or Off-Broadway show.

A million people go to Times Square on New Year's Eve: it's the biggest party ever!

20. Central Park

Central Park is the cool, green heart of Manhattan. It opened in 1858. Central Park is 843 acres (341 hectares) in size, near the center of Manhattan Island. That is why we call it “Central Park.” More than 40 million people visit Central Park every year. It is one of the three places in New York City that most visitors want to see.

Between 1820 and 1850 many immigrants (mostly from Ireland and Germany) came to Manhattan. During this time the population of Manhattan grew from approximately 110,000 to more than 500,000. Many parts of Manhattan were crowded, noisy and dirty.

City leaders wanted to have a “country paradise” in the big city. And the architects and workers who made the park did a great job. Central Park has quiet paths, stone bridges and open meadows. There are thousands of trees and shrubs. It is also home to many birds and other animals.

Central Park has something for everyone: running and cycling paths, baseball fields, a zoo, a skating rink, playgrounds, theaters, gardens, lakes, waterfalls, restaurants and snack bars, and hundreds of quiet areas to read and relax. It is a special part of New York City and a great place to visit!

21. The High Line

The High Line is a unique 1.45 mile [2.3 km.] long public park that opened in 2009. It is on an old railroad line above the streets on Manhattan's West Side.

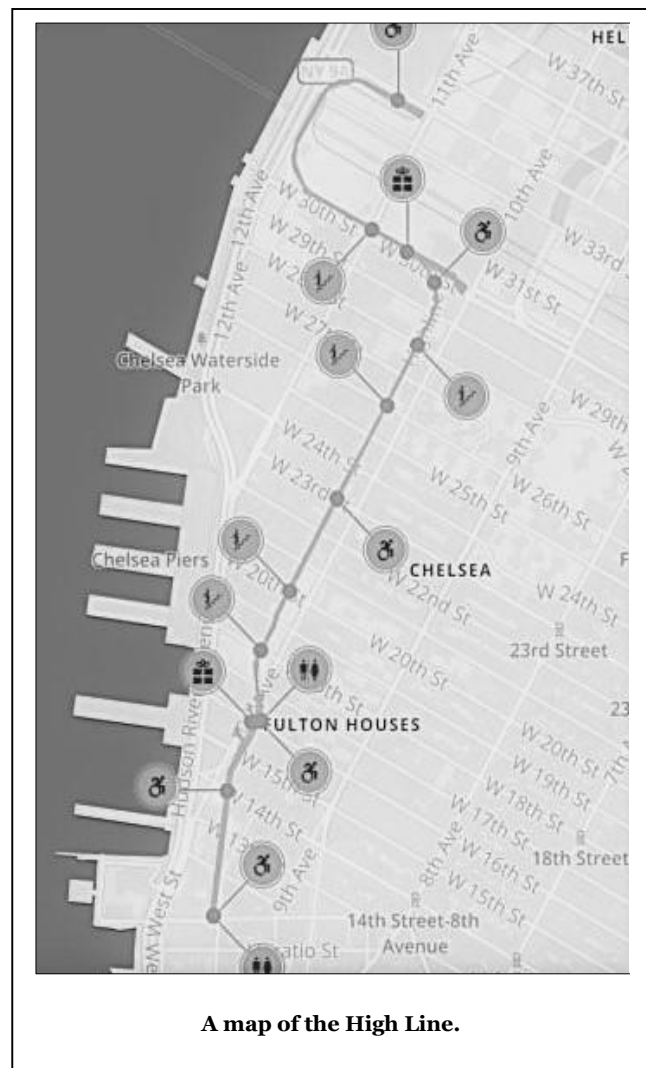

It starts at Gansevoort Street in the Meatpacking District and ends at West 34th Street, between 10th and 12th Avenues, near Hudson Yards. The High Line is a great place to visit in New York City. It is very popular, especially during the summer.

The High Line has something for everyone: you can walk through a small forest, see beautiful gardens (there are over 120 different species of plants), visit an art exhibit, have a picnic, or just sit down and relax.

There are excellent views of the Hudson River, New Jersey and Manhattan from the park. The High Line is also a great place to look at or observe other people (we call it “people watching”). The organization Friends of the High Line gives free tours.

The High Line is close to the Whitney Museum of American Art (Gansevoort Street) and Chelsea Market (9th Avenue and W. 16th Street). It is also near many art galleries, shops and restaurants.

You can visit the High Line for free. It is open every day of the year. Go to the High Line's website for hours (see the Links section at the end of this book).

23. The National Museum of the American Indian

The National Museum of the American Indian (NMAI) is part of the Smithsonian Institution of Washington, D.C. The Smithsonian Institution is the largest museum complex in the world. The NMAI teaches about the life, languages, literature, history, and arts of the indigenous people of the Americas. The museum has an excellent collection of rare Native American objects, plus many public programs. It is one of the most interesting places to visit in New York City.

George Gustav Heye (1874–1957) was a railroad engineer. He traveled all over North and South America and collected native objects. He put his collection together over 54 years, beginning in 1903. The Heye collection includes more than 800,000 objects, plus 125,000 photos and drawings. Many are rare and unique. It is the biggest and best collection of Native American art in the world.

In 1916, Mr. Heye started his “Museum of the American Indian” in the Bronx. It opened to the public in 1922. The Heye collection became part of the Smithsonian Institution in 1990. You can see some of the best objects at a beautiful old building in downtown Manhattan that was the U.S. Custom House many years ago. You can visit the museum for free.

Vocabulary note.

The words native and indigenous mean the same thing: “coming naturally from a particular region or country.” We can say that apples grow in many places, but the apple is indigenous (native) to Central Asia. Or we can say that the Mayan people are indigenous to southern Mexico and Guatemala. Today, the word “indigenous” is better to use than “native.”

24. Three Quiet Places in Manhattan

Manhattan is one of the most exciting places on Earth. But on an island that has almost everything, peace and quiet are not easy to find. Here are three outdoor places in Manhattan that are peaceful and quiet. You can visit all of them for free.

Carl Schurz Park. Only 14.9 acres (6.0 hectares) in size, this beautiful park is next to the East River. Gracie Mansion (built in 1799), the home of the Mayor, is part of the park. Carl Schurz Park has walking paths, places to sit, a basketball court, a playground, many trees and gardens, and a beautiful promenade with great East River views. The main entrance is on East End Avenue between East 87th and East 88th Streets.

Paley Park is a tiny park on East 53rd Street between Fifth and Madison Avenues. What can you see there? A beautiful waterfall! When you sit in front of the waterfall, you feel like you are in another world. It is a perfect place to relax. Paley Park is open six days a week (it is closed on Sunday) from 8 AM to 7:45 PM. Many people go there for lunch between noon and 2 PM, so it is better to visit at other times.

St. Luke's Garden is part of The Church of Saint Luke in the Fields in the West Village. This beautiful old garden has quiet paths, lots of grass, thousands of flowers and dozens of old trees. The entrance is at Hudson Street, between Barrow and Grove Streets. Walk under a sign that reads "St. Luke's School." Follow the path west and then south until you see the gate to the garden. It is open from 8 AM to 7 PM on weekdays, and on weekends from 8 AM until 4 PM. You can bring food. But no pets, smoking or alcohol.

25. A Walk Across the Brooklyn Bridge

The Brooklyn Bridge opened in 1883 to carry traffic (horses and wagons, trolley cars and pedestrians) between Lower Manhattan and Brooklyn over the East River.

The Brooklyn Bridge is a “must see” destination for visitors to New York City. It is part of New York City history. A walk across the bridge will give you a true New York experience. You can also cross the bridge by bicycle.

The best time to go is early in the morning on a sunny day. You can see the sun come up over Brooklyn in the East, and watch the sun light up the downtown Manhattan skyscrapers in the West. It is also beautiful in late afternoon or early evening. It is often very windy on the bridge, so wear warm clothes and hold on to your hat!

The Manhattan entrance to the Brooklyn Bridge is at Park Row and Centre Street, across from City Hall Park, east of City Hall; the closest subway stop is the City Hall “4,” “5” and “6” station.

If you are in Brooklyn, the bridge entrance is at Cadman Plaza East, where Boerum Place meets Tillary Street. If you take the subway, get off at the High Street “A” and “C” station, and walk to the pedestrian entrance of the bridge.

Brooklyn Bridge Trivia.

1. The Brooklyn Bridge took 14 years to build. 600 people (mostly immigrants) worked on it.
2. When it opened in 1883, it was the longest bridge in the world.
4. The Brooklyn Bridge is 5,989 feet (1825 m) long and 276.5 feet (84.3 m) high.
5. When the bridge opened, its name was “The New York and Brooklyn Bridge.” It has been “The Brooklyn Bridge” since 1915.
6. More than 100,000 cars and trucks, along with 4000 pedestrians and almost 2600 bicycles, cross the Brooklyn Bridge every day.

26. The Brooklyn Botanic Garden

The Brooklyn Botanic Garden (BBG) opened in 1910. It is 52 acres (21 hectares) in size, and is one of the most important botanical gardens in the United States. It is close to Manhattan and you can get there by subway. Almost one million people visit the BBG every year, especially in the spring. Many people like to get married there!

The BBG has several special collections and gardens. Its flowering cherry tree (sakura) collection is the largest and most diverse outside Japan. The collection includes more than 220 cherry trees of 42 different varieties. Some of the trees are very old. The BBG has a cherry blossom festival (Sakura Matsuri) in late April.

The BBG also has the largest miniature bonsai tree collection in the United States.

The Japanese Hill-and-Pond Garden (see photo) is the first Japanese garden that is part of an American public garden.

Other important gardens are the Cranford Rose Garden, with over 1400 different varieties of roses; the Shakespeare Garden; the Native Flora Garden with plants that are indigenous (local) to New York; the Steinhart Conservatory with three large indoor plant collections; the Japanese Tree Peony Garden; and the Children's Garden, the oldest garden for children in the world.

The Brooklyn Botanic Garden is a great place to enjoy a quiet day with friends and family. You can bring your camera, but you cannot bring food or pets. There are two gift shops, an art gallery, a restaurant, a café and a new Visitor Center.

27. The Staten Island Ferry

The Staten Island Ferry travels 5.2 miles (8.4 km) between Manhattan and Staten Island. It operates 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. It makes two to four trips an hour. The Staten Island Ferry is free. You pay nothing!

The Staten Island Ferry travels between Whitehall Terminal in Lower Manhattan and St. George Terminal in St. George, Staten Island. There are connections to trains and buses at each terminal. The trip on the ferry takes about 20-25 minutes.

Staten Island residents like the ferry because there are no other direct transit connections between Staten Island and Manhattan, where many Staten Islanders work and shop.

Visitors to NYC like the ferry because it is a quiet “escape” from high-energy Manhattan.

Plus, the ferry has great views of Lower Manhattan and New Jersey, the Brooklyn Bridge, Governors Island, the Verrazzano Narrows Bridge, and especially the Statue of Liberty.

Passengers like to sit outside on the right when they go to Staten Island, or stand at the front (known as the bow) or the back (called the stern) of the boat for the best views. When the ferry arrives at St. George Terminal, all passengers must leave the ferry before they return to Manhattan.

The trip can be windy and cool, even during the summer. It is good to wear warm clothing, or you can sit inside the boat. You can buy beverages and snacks on the ferry and at the terminals.

28. Study English in NYC

If you want to study English, New York City is the place to be. As the largest city in the United States, New York has everything: art, music, theater, parks, beaches, museums, libraries, restaurants, night clubs, coffee shops, interesting neighborhoods and great shopping.

People from all over the world visit and live here, so you can study with students from many different countries. With a 24-hour subway and bus system, and many restaurants and other places that are open all night, you will see why people call New York “the city that never sleeps.”

Where to study? If you have money, there are dozens of good private schools in New York City that offer classes in ESOL (English for Speakers of other Languages). Many private colleges and universities have ESOL classes too. You must pay for these classes. They usually cost $700 to $1200 or more.

Many public colleges and universities in New York City- such as the City University of New York (CUNY) - have ESOL classes. They are not free, but they cost less than classes at private language schools.

Several government departments, like the NYC Department of Youth and Community Development (DYCD) and We Speak NYC offer free English classes to people who live here. And New York City’s three public library systems- the New York Public Library, Brooklyn Public Library and Queens Library- have free English classes (including conversation classes) at their adult learning centers and at many branch libraries.

There are local organizations in many New York City neighborhoods (they are called community-based organizations or CBOs) that have free English programs for adults. They are open to all adults and they are free. You can find some of these programs on the last page of this chapter.

Vocabulary note.

What's the difference between a college and a university? In the United States, a college offers a collection of degrees in one area of study, while a university is a group of colleges (or schools). When you go to a university, you will graduate from one of their colleges, such as the business college or the nursing school.
